To improve our processes and practices at the World Campus we have implemented an annual student survey. In the fall of 2019 we administered the Ruffalo Noel Levitz Priorities Survey for Online Learners (PSOL). The survey went to 7,952 active students with the home campus of World Campus. Of those, 474 (6%) completed the survey.

Top areas of importance
The top three areas identified as most important to students were:
1. The quality of online instruction
2. Convenience
3. The ability to experience intellectual growth at the institution

Overall satisfaction
Students’ overall satisfaction rating was 5.86 on a 7 point scale.

Top institutional strengths
The top three areas identified as institutional strengths were:
1. Students are able to experience intellectual growth here
2. Faculty are fair and unbiased in their treatment of individual students
3. The institution has a good reputation

Top institutional challenges
The top three areas identified as institutional challenges were:
1. The quality of online instruction,
2. Appropriateness of instructional materials for program content
3. Sufficient course offerings within the program of study
Survey Methods

Survey Description
PSOL is a standardized instrument specific to online, distance learners designed to identify areas of importance to students as well as institutional strengths and challenges. All items, except for demographics, were on a 7-point Likert scale. There were 28 questions that asked about importance and satisfaction and 18 questions that asked only for importance. There was one open-ended question that asked students to “please enter any comments you would like to share with this institution.”

Survey Distribution
The survey was sent to 7,952 students with the home campus of World Campus. One invite and two reminder emails were sent. All were World Campus branded.

Determining Top Importance
Top importance were the items that ranked highest in terms of how important they were to students.

Determining Key Institutional Strengths
Key strengths were items ranked in the top quartile of satisfaction and the top half of importance.

Determining Key Institutional Challenges
Key challenges were items in the top half of importance and with a performance gap (difference between importance and satisfaction score) in the upper quartile.

Comparisons to Other Universities
World Campus PSOL results were also compared to results of other universities.

Qualitative Analysis
304 students provided feedback to the single open-ended question.

Limitations
Due to small response rate, data from this survey cannot be generalized.
